A Note From Our Founder

Dear %firstName%,

As we close out another year of service, I am reflecting on how much compassion and commitment can be found in our community. It is powerful when a helping hand reaches out to a paw in need. Throughout this newsletter, you will see the impact of that kindness. Pets like Pepper received lifesaving care because someone chose to help. Students collected food for animals they have never met. Volunteers and partners came together to support families during difficult times.

Many households are facing tighter budgets this season, especially with reduced SNAP benefits. This creates more pressure on pet guardians who are already doing everything they can to keep their companions safe and fed. Your support fills the gap when they need it most. You help us answer calls for emergency veterinary care. You help provide pet food and supplies. You help keep pets with the people who rely on them for comfort, stability, and protection.

As we move toward the end of the year, I am deeply grateful for everyone who continues to stand with our mission. Your generosity strengthens every program we offer and makes it possible for us to reach more pets and more people across the country. Your donation helps us do even more with the support of the Dave & Cheryl Duffield Foundation, which is matching gifts dollar for dollar through December 15 until we reach our $50,000 goal.

Thank you for caring. Thank you for giving. And thank you for being part of this work as we look forward to the year ahead.

If you are able, I invite you to take part in this early Giving Tuesday opportunity. Together, we can bring comfort, safety, and hope to the pets and people who need it most.

Success Stories That Matter

Highlighting Those Who Deserve It

Hi, I'm Pepper.

Hi, my name is Pepper, and I am a 9-year-old Chihuahua from Agoura Hills. My dad and I have been together my whole life. We are currently experiencing homelessness and spend half the month in our vehicle and the other half in a hotel through his county benefits.

My dad knew I might have a heart murmur and he watched over me closely. When I began passing out and becoming catatonic, he reached out to everyone he could for help. That is when he found Feeding Pets of the Homeless.

After a quick intake, I was sent to the vet the same day. Testing confirmed I have a lifelong heart murmur, but thanks to the diagnostics and care I received, I can now be treated with the medication I need to stay healthy.

Feeding Pets of the Homeless contributed $621 toward my care, and now I am feeling so much better.

DOUBLE YOUR DONATION

This season, your gift can go twice as far for pets in need. Our Giving Tuesday Match is officially underway, and thanks to the generosity of the Dave & Cheryl Duffield Foundation, all donations made now through December 15 will be matched dollar for dollar until $50,000 in total matching funds is reached.

Your support provides emergency veterinary care, pet food, sleeping crates for shelters, and access to wellness clinics for pets of people experiencing homelessness. When you give, you help keep pets healthy and with the people who rely on them for comfort, protection, and companionship.

If you are able, please consider making an early Giving Tuesday gift to help us unlock the full match.

How SNAP Changes Affect Pets

When SNAP Benefits Fall Short, Pets Feel the Impact Too

Across the country, families relying on SNAP are facing reduced benefits and tighter food budgets. Since SNAP has never covered pet food, many people must choose between meeting their own needs or feeding their pets.

This growing pressure is leading to more requests for pet food, higher demand at our Pet Food Providers, and increased strain on our Emergency Veterinary Care program.

Teaching Compassion

Miss Bartelt's Second Grade Class

For many years, second-grade teacher Miss Bartelt and her students have supported Feeding Pets of the Homeless in a truly heartwarming way. Each year, her class learns about inspiring changemakers like Cesar Chavez, Rachel Carson, and our own founder, Genevieve Frederick.

This year, her students collected an impressive 101 pounds of dog and cat food to help pets in need. Thank you, Miss Bartelt, and your incredible second graders for continuing this tradition of kindness and compassion.

Teachers interested in getting involved can join as a volunteer to make a difference in their own classrooms and communities.
