A Note From Our Founder

Hello %firstName%,

August is National Dog Month, a time to recognize the comfort, companionship and unconditional love dogs bring into our lives.

Anyone who has loved a dog understands how deeply they become part of the family. They greet us with joy, stay close during difficult moments and offer a kind of loyalty that asks for nothing in return.

That bond can be even more important for people experiencing homelessness. A dog may be a person's closest companion, source of protection and one constant during a time of uncertainty. These pets provide comfort, purpose and a reason to keep moving forward. In return, their guardians often make tremendous sacrifices to keep them safe, fed and by their side.

At the same time, the need for our services continues to grow, and the cost of providing that help is rising. Pet food, supplies and veterinary care are more expensive, which means every dollar must stretch further to help keep pets healthy and with the people who love them.

Give a Dog a Bone Week, Aug. 2 through 8, is an opportunity to take action. You can donate pet food or supplies, make a financial gift, start an online fundraiser or share our mission with others.

Every contribution helps fill a bowl, provide needed care and protect the bond between a person and the pet who means everything to them.

This National Dog Month, let's celebrate all that dogs give us by helping ensure pets belonging to people experiencing homelessness receive the care and compassion they deserve.

Success Stories That Matter

Highlighting Those Who Deserve It

Meet Roxanna

Each month, we share stories through the eyes of the pets we help. This month, we'd like to share a message from one of their owners instead.

Roxanna and her dad are currently experiencing homelessness together. After losing his business during the pandemic, he lost his home and has been living in his truck with Roxanna. She is his last remaining companion.

When Roxanna developed a large mammary tumor, her dad did everything he could to keep her comfortable while searching for help. Through Feeding Pets of the Homeless, she received the diagnostics and veterinary care she needed, giving her hope for surgery and recovery.

This is what Roxanna's dad wanted to share:

"I just want Roxanna with me for as long as possible. She's my family, my companion, and she's still full of life.

People have told me to give her up because of my situation. They don't understand the bond we share. Feeding Pets of the Homeless did.

Michelle (our case manager) and everyone at Feeding Pets of the Homeless gave me hope when I felt like I had none. Because of you, Roxanna has a chance to live. Thank you for your kindness, your compassion, and for believing in us. I thank God for you every day."

Stories like Roxanna's remind us that love, hope, and companionship can endure even during life's hardest moments.

Thank you for helping keep pets and the people who love them together.

What if your pet was your only family?

Genevieve Frederick, Founder and President of Feeding Pets of the Homeless, recently joined Ryan Johnson on the ACT Podcast for a meaningful conversation about compassion, veterinary care and the powerful role pets play in the lives of people experiencing homelessness.

The episode also explores how partnerships with more than 2,000 veterinary hospitals across the country are helping provide critical care while protecting the human-animal bond.

This conversation is about more than pets. It is about hope, dignity and why no one should have to choose between caring for themselves and caring for the animal they love.

August Make-a-Will Month

For people experiencing homelessness, a pet is often their closest companion, a source of comfort, safety, and unconditional love. Feeding Pets of the Homeless makes sure that bond endures, providing pet food and emergency veterinary care so that no one has to choose between their own needs and the animal who depends on them. Make-A-Will Month, each August, is a chance to plan ahead for everyone who counts on you, pets included.

Feeding Pets of the Homeless has partnered with FreeWill to offer a will-writing tool that is free to use. Your will protects your family and lets you name a caregiver for your pets, and should you choose, a gift in your will provides the food and emergency care that keep beloved pets healthy and by their person's side for years to come. Begin with the link below.
